Reach Out

2/2017

I have a co-worker that is experiencing many personal challenges in his family and is on the fence with “religion” and church because as he says, “he gave it his all but it didn’t work for him.” He was hurt in church. He does not discount what I believe. He actually admires my faith. In talking, he said I could send him one inspirational message every day. I was so excited. I replied “Are you sure you know what you are getting into, how many characters can I get?” He said, “I know. 250 characters that should be plenty.”

I seek God everyday for inspiration for him. I mix it up with scripture and short devotional readings from people that inspire me and even a direct word from the Lord as it is given to me.

What did I do: In obedience, I shared inspiration and the word with my co-worker.

What did God do: God is changing my co-worker day by day. His countenance is changing. He is more joyful. I let him know I can see a difference and he said he is trying to be a happier person.

PRAISE THE LORD!
